NEW DRY GOODS SHOP IN MOKENA

A new enterprise is scheduled for Mokena, to be known as the E and H Variety shop, to be located in the new building recently erected on Front street. Mrs. Es ther Nitsche, of Tinley Park, who has been operating a similar shop in Orland Park, hopes to open the shop by October 1.

The store will sell women's clothing, baby clothes and a line of dry goods. The fixtures and equipment are being installed by Walter Schoeneck.

This is the first store to handle dry goods in this vicinity for several years and will afford the residents of this community a convenient place to shop for clothing and other goods in this line.

M. A. Sizer-W. Buske Wed in St. John's

At the flower banked altar of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church, Miss Margaret Alice Sizer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sizer of Mokena, and Wilbur Buske, of Chicago, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Buske, were united in marriage Saturday evening, September 16 at 7:30 o'clock. The Rev. William J. Riemann read the service.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. Catherine Strassenburg, the organist, who also played the accompaniments for the soloist, Larry Grey.

The bride, who was escorted to the altar by her father, wore a gown of white satin trimmed with silk hand made filigree. Her veil was fingertip length. She carried a bouquet of white roses centered with an orchid.

Miss Carole Benson, her maid of honor, was dressed in light blue net trimmed with velvet. Her bridesmaids were Miss Elaine Spiess dressed in powder blue, Miss Betty Buske in pink and Miss Sylvia Archer in green. The attendants' gowns were similarly fashioned and each carried a colonial bouquet of contrasting carnations. Their picture hats were in matching colors. Lorene Sizer, niece of the bride, dressed in yellow, served as flower girl.

Allen Neuber attended the groom as best man. The ushers were Frank Sizer Jr., brother of the bride, John Nordell and Roy Ebert. They also lighted the tapers in the candleabra on the altar.

The bride's mother wore a gown of dusty rose with crystal trim. Her accessories were in navy blue. Mrs. Buske was dressed in green. Both had corsages of photanopsis. The grandparents who attended were Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Smith and M. R. Michan.

A reception for 300 guests was held in the VFW hall and a buffet supper was served by the Woman's Auxiliary. The bridal table was decorated with flowers and a large beautiful wedding cake formed the center piece. Many beautiful gifts were received.

The couple will make their home with the bride's parents until their home is completed. The bride is employed by the Hanover Insurance company in Chicago and the groom works for the Public Service company in Blue Island.

The evening before the wedding the bride's mother entertained at a late supper in their home for the bridal party. At that time the bride and groom presented gifts to their attendants.

Blue Ballot Brings Better Constitution

Illinois voters should pay special attention to a blue ballot they will receive when they vote in the general election Nov. 7. For it's a mighty important ballot.

This advice came from Charles B. Shuman, president of the Illinois Agricultural Association. The IAA is the state Farm Bureau organization with 175,000 farm family members.

On that ballot will be printed a proposal to make it easier to change the state constitution. Shuman said he urged everybody to vote "yes" on the blue ballot.

This plan for thawing out Illinois' constitution is known generally as the Gateway amendment. It has been given this name because it is hoped it will open the door to more up to date government in the state.

You can see we need a few changes in our constitution when you consider that it hasn't been amended since 1905," Shuman declared. "This means we have lagged behind in getting some needed reforms."

Adopting the Gateway amendment will not make it too easy to change the constitution, however, the IAA president stated.

"But the constitution will be flexible enough so that it can be adjusted to meet present demands. That's the only way we can make progress in our tax system and in our government generally."

Under the Gateway plan, an amendment to the constitution will be passed if two-thirds of the persons voting on the amendment vote in favor of it.

The present constitution requires that an amendment must receive a majority of all the votes cast in an election to be passed.

"Failure to vote for the Gateway amendment is actually a vote against the plan," Shuman said. So look for that Blue Ballot on Nov. 7. Vote "yes" on this ballot to help set better government.

Speaker William M. Bollig, Quartermaster of the Department of Illinois VFW, will dedicate the Auxiliary flag.

Offer Free Classes In Home Economics

This fall, for the first time, the Orland Park Community High school, in cooperation with the State board for vocational education, will offer classes in homemaking to out of school adults. Registration will have to be sufficiently large to make the classes worthwhile. The hours and subjects will be planned with the instructor to meet the needs of those enrolled.

Classes will meet for two hours, and ten class meetings are necessary to meet the standards set. There has been some indication that a class in beginning sewing and another class in cooking, which would include such topics as pastries, quick breads, party serving etc., would be desirable. A class in child care and training may be arranged if there is interest in this field.

In order to know that we have enough women interested to schedule the classes, we are asking that anyone interested attend a registration meeting on Wednesday, October 4, at 7:30 pm, in the Home-making Building. At this time we will arrange dates for the classes and plan the content for the courses. If you cannot attend the meeting, call Orland 51, and tell Mrs. Loebe, which course you wish to join. There is no tuition charge for these courses. The students pay for the consumable goods, such as groceries and sewing supplies.

There is no age limit, however students currently enrolled in high school are excluded. Mrs. Geuther will teach the sewing class. Mrs. Louise Powers, graduate Home Economist from Purdue University will give the foods work. It is expected that both classes will meet the same night.

MOKENA CAR RAMMED BY HIT AND RUN DRIVER

As Harry Cooper of Mokena was driving to New Lenox Tuesday evening about 7 o'clock, he figured in an auto accident. He and other cars had stopped at a barricade where the highway department was doing some black-topping. But the car in back of Cooper did not stop and thereby rammed into the Cooper car. The car behind Cooper was driven by William G. Handley of Chicago Heights and when he hit Cooper's 1950 Mercury, he did not stop, but drove on.

Cooper drove into New Lenox, secured a warrant from Justice of the Peace Melvin Whitaker for the arrest of Handley. The latter's car was seen parked at the bowling alley and Stanley Drake and John Mackin, police officers of New Lenox arrested Handley when he came to his car. He was brought before Justice of Peace Whitaker who bound him over to the Will county court under $2000 bond and set his trial for October 6. Charges were running away from the scene of an accident.

REWARD—The reward of the good citizen who studies the issues and the records of the candidates and votes in every election is good government.

For the benefit of their community park, all organizations in the village of Frankfort have banded together for the purpose of holding a fall festival. It will be held on the main street and the adjoining vacant property of the Michigan Central railroad. The dates are next Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoon and evening.

A large tent will house a vegetable and flower exhibit to which the committee in charge is asking every farmer, or any one who has an unusual or large specimen of vegetable or flower, to bring them to the tent. Mrs. Jake Hostert, of the Royal Neighbors, will be in charge of this part of the festival. It is requested of those bringing articles to the exhibit to have their name on them and bring them any time after three o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Rides will afford fun for all adults and children. The Woman's club will handle the refreshments and the Lions club, the soft drinks. The PTA and the Firemen have been assigned concessions. Everyone in Frankfort is gladly lending their hand to do whatever they can to help the good cause. When the 20 acres have been all paid and the park developed, it will be a fine thing for the community.

Saturday afternoon will be the big event, for starting at 1:30 a parade has been planned. All are elated over the fact that the Joliet Grade School championship band will lead it and also play a number of selections. There will be a special section devoted just to the kiddies—so the kiddies here is advice—start thinking about decorating that doll buggy, tricycle, wagon or what have you.

Also in the parade will be the Kitchen band of the Busy Homemakers Home Bureau unit of Green Garden.

The people of Frankfort invite everyone from far and near to attend their fall festival and have one more last good time in the out of doors, before winter closes in. They invite you to come and meet your friends at the Frankfort Fall Festival, October 5, 6, 7.

Pate' de foie gras

That's French, and means goose-liver pie, and, for all we know maybe that's what the Mokena PTA is cooking up. Mrs. George Steele chairman of the Ways and Means committee, is acting mighty mysterious these days—she just says, "Wait and see" when ever queried on the subject "Is it going to be another minstrel show or the 1950 Follies a la Mokena." We won't have to hold our breath much longer. We can always be sure of having a good show—we have such talented co-operators.

Fertilizing Pastures and Crop Land This Fall Will Boost '51 Yields and Profits

Top-Dressing With Plenty of Plant Food Increases Yields of High Quality, Low Cost Forage on Permanent Pastures Not Renovated.

A FOUR-POINT program for adding fertilizer to croplands this fall that will help farmers cut down next spring's work load and give crops a head start, was listed by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee, based on recommendations by Prof. C. J. Chapman, of the soils department of the University of Wisconsin.

Here are the steps Prof. Chapman suggests:

1—For winter wheat or fall-seeded rye, a complete fertilizer should be applied at seeding time. He recommends adding up to 300 pounds per acre of 3-12-12, 4-12-8, 3-9-18, or their equivalent.

2—Permanent pastures that will be renovated this fall should be liberally fertilized before the seedbed is torn up with field cultivator or disc. On silt and clay loam soils, applications of as much as 300 to 400 pounds per acre of 0-20-20, 0-9-27 or 0-10-30 are suggested. Where no renovation is planned, permanent pastures should be top-dressed with a complete fertilizer this fall or a phosphate-potash fertilizer this fall and nitrogen next spring.

3—Fall plowed fields that will be seeded to small grains and legumes next spring can be fertilized this fall and then again next spring. At seeding time, drill in from 100 to 150 pounds per acre of a complete fertilizer in direct contact with seed.

4—On low fertility silt or clay loam fields that will be planted to corn in 1951, high nitrogen fertilizer mixtures such as 8-8-8 or 10-10-10 can be plowed under this fall either with attachments on the plow, or broadcast before plowing and then plowed under. High nitrogen fertilizer should not be plowed under on sandy soils, because there is some danger of losing part of the nitrogen by leaching.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

New Use For Old Windmills

I drove past Larson's farm last week and saw him perched on top of his 75-year-old windmill. "Still planning on tearing it down?" I shouted up to him.

"Not on your life," says Curly as he climbs down. "I'm getting myself a television set from Buzz Ellis' and he says this windmill is going to come in mighty handy."

"You see," Curly went on, "I'm going to put my TV antenna right on top of it. Since the windmill is higher than the house, I'll get the best reception around here—but if it wasn't for Buzz and his advice, I'd have scrapped it."

From where I sit, Curly's success as a farmer and his popularity in town is due, in a large part, to his open-mindedness and his willingness to listen to people and their opinions. He'll listen to Buzz Ellis over a malted milk or he and I can talk politics—each with a glass of temperate beer. Yes, Curly's as modern as television itself!

"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

North and South, Republican and Democrat, have been successful in getting passed in the Senate what is known as the Wherry amendment. That, as part of the Defense Production Act, should result in a fair distribution of available civilian goods.

And as Senators Wherry (R., Neb.) and Sparkman (D., Ala.) pushed for passage, they were supported by organized independent business. . . . Inspired recently by the reported ghosts of 525,000 small businesses that needlessly perished in World War II.

This new bill will require that small independent businesses distributing civilian goods be given a fair share of the available supply, based on a representative period before June 24, 1950.

If the House passes this measure, it will correct one of the glaring oversights of the past when monopoly owned or controlled outlets received the available supplies, and independent business was left on a limb.

This one victory has far-reaching reverberations. Prior to this, the talk was entirely of voluntary allocations, tied in with suspension of anti-trust laws. In other words, Congressmen were told "the situation can be handled by gentlemen's agreements."

But Senators privately say they are becoming wary of these "gentlemen's agreements" . . . would like to be sure of what "gentlemen" are involved in such agreements. Many feel that they, like little Red Riding Hood, found out just in the nick of time that grandma was a wolf.

Congressmen, eyeing November elections, are aghast at some press releases sent out by government-hired press agents.

©National Federation of Independent Business

They shudder and hope much will never be published in newspapers read by tax-conscious constituents.

For example, the current release from the Office of Information, Economic Cooperation Administration, commonly known as the Marshall Plan, tells how American tax dollars are being used to modernize hotels in Europe, including such nations as Portugal, Ireland, Luxembourg, Sweden, Turkey, etc.

With brash pride ECA Release No. 1660 tells how Marshall Plan dollars have installed more bathrooms, changed rooms from double beds to twin beds, air-conditioned ballrooms, made other changes in these hotels. Thus American dollars voted to stop starvation are used to create luxury abroad.

As everyone knows, a lot of improvements are needed in American hotels.

But after taxes American hotels don't have the funds. And while Europe's hotels get free American dollars, American owners often can't get low cost loans.

Things like this are worrying Congressmen.

They feel this type of information, if read by tax-ridden voters, will be reflected in November voting. There may be some grounds for their fears.

Many Washingtonians are quoting Nicolai Lenin, founder of the Soviet Union.

He wrote: "Germany will arm itself out of existence." (Has happened, they say.) "Britain will expand itself out of existence." (Has happened, they say.) "America will spend itself out of existence." (Is it happening, they ask.)

Weather Hurt Borers This Year; Now in Weak Position

Corn borers have taken a bad beating from the weather this season, and Illinois farmers are now in an ideal position to hurt the pests badly.
That's the opinion of G. C. Decker, insect specialist in the Illinois College of Agriculture and Illinois Natural History Survey.
He says that most of the credit for putting the borers "behind the eight ball" must go to the weather. All season long it has been ideal for cutting down their numbers. It has done far more than man to reduce borer numbers to a more reasonable level.
"Now that they're down to our size, we can hit them hard enough to make it difficult for them to recover," declares Decker.
The way to do this, he says, is by continuing to follow recommended practices—clean plowing, delayed planting, using adapted hybrids, and spraying when necessary.
Naturally we can't do these things until next spring, but we can make plans for them this winter.
"Above all," Decker adds, "we must avoid the feeling that the fight is all over now. Farmers still must be on the alert. They've been lucky this year, but you can't always count on the weather."
Decker expects to have a report about November 1 on corn borer damage in Illinois this year.

England Has Twice U. S. Miners But Half As Much Coal

Great Britain's socialized coal industry employs twice as many miners but produces less than half as much coal as America's free enterprise system of mining, according to figures compiled by the Bituminous Coal Institute following receipt of England's latest National Coal Board report.
The comparison also shows that coal miners in Great Britain earned less than six dollars a day in 1949 while the base pay of American miners was 14 dollars per day.
"The Coal Board report discloses that, although large sums were spent for machinery and equipment made in the United States, British mines in 1949 actually produced 28 million fewer tons of coal than the output of the same mines in 1939 under private management and with far less mechanization.
Absenteeism in English mines last year amounted to 12 per cent of all working time, nearly double the rate under private ownership.

Mother Goose on the Loose

NO LONGER A SECRET—Chicago's State Street tried on the first of her 1950 Christmas lamp post decorations revealing that the brand new theme will tell the stories of Mother Goose this year. Mary and her Little Lamb, 14 feet high and standing on a five-foot drum, are constructed of a fiber-filled plaster, covered with a waterproof fabric and colored with oil paints. She and five other nursery favorites will be mounted on 54 of State Street's 86 lamp posts in the nine-block downtown area. Thirty-two giant candy canes alternate with the Mother Goose characters.

cause the flock has already gone into production. As a result many of the hens may spread pullorum disease in their eggs.
Pullorum disease costs turkey growers thousands of dollars a year in turkey poult losses. Blood testing detects the infected hens so they can be removed. This prevents the disease from spreading through their eggs to infect newly hatched poults.
Many Illinois turkey flocks are enrolled in the National and State Turkey Improvement Plan. These turkeys are tested for pullorum disease by the College of Veterinary Medicine in cooperation with the State Department of Agriculture.

Improve Pullorum Test for Turkeys

Illinois turkey breeders will get a more accurate test of their flocks for pullorum disease this fall as the result of a discovery made at the University of Illinois College of Veterinary Medicine.
Until recently, laying turkey hens could not be tested for pullorum disease. Their blood contained fat which interfered with the results of the test. Now 95 percent of the fat in the blood serum can be removed by using a chemical named ethylene dichloride.
Blood serum from turkeys not in production is clear and can be tested readily. But as soon as they start to lay, fat in their blood causes the serum to become cloudy.
Sometimes turkey flocks must be tested more than once to find all the infected hens. Often the second or third tests can not be made be-

"As majority leader," the statement said, "Senator Lucas is the spokesman in the Senate of President Truman, who under the influence of the over-ambitious Federal Security Administrator, Oscar R. Ewing, has declared on numerous occasions that compulsory sickness insurance is an essential part of his program. They tell him what to do—or else, Senator Lucas is stuck with it."
The statement pointed out that Senator Lucas voted in favor of the administration's Reorganization Plan No. 1 in August, 1949 though it was strongly opposed by organized medicine.
It also recalled that the Democratic Jubilee meeting in Chicago last May adopted a plank which declared unequivocally in favor of the administration's socialized medicine plan, though Senator Lucas was present, along with President Truman and Mr. Ewing.
Similarly the Democratic National Committee recently issued a booklet which presented all the hackneyed arguments for the socialization of medicine as a part of its kit of campaign materials, the statement pointed out. This booklet, in a different cover, has also been issued by the Committee for the Nation's Health, a group which includes many left-wingers and is a principal proponent of socialization.

Township Officials Favor Local Rule

Troy A. Kost, of Astoria, secretary of the Association of Township Officials of Illinois, in a statement issued today, declared that the association will make a fight for improved rural roads to be financed with state funds in the legislature when it convenes in January.

"The association," he said, "will support an increase in the state gasoline tax only if the townships receive a fair share of the increase. 'At least 12 1/2 percent should be returned to the townships if the gasoline tax is increased. There are 76,000 miles of rural roads in Illinois, mostly in deplorable condition because townships have not had sufficient funds with which to build or maintain them.'"

Kost said the association favored increased license fees for heavy commercial vehicles, sufficient to insure payment of a fair share of the cost of maintenance and construction of roads. He charged that excessive truck weights now permitted are responsible for the premature destruction of roads and bridges in the state. The association, he said, favors a return to the 20 ton weight limit for tractor trailers which prevailed prior to 1945. A lower weight limit is necessary to avoid tremendous highway expenditures, and for the convenience and safety of highway users, he added.

Kost said the association would oppose any legislation which would compel consolidation of townships for road purposes unless voters approved the change. He expressed the conviction that rural roads cannot be built or maintained cheaper under a unit system.

"Local government can administer local affairs much cheaper than centralized bodies," he said, "and for this reason, if no other, the township should not be swallowed up by a larger government body. The township form of government should stand as it is."

The association will hold its annual convention at Peoria, September 26-29, at which time its legislative program will be formulated.

DEVOTIONAL READING: Luke 10:25-37.

Christian Living

Lesson for October 1, 1950

READER, do you have your New Testament handy? Get it down and let us go over a few paragraphs of it together. What we are looking for is an answer to this question: Is there anything special, anything different, noticeable, about the Christian way of life?

Act on the Word

FIRST, look at James 1:22-27. "Be ye doers of the Word," he says, "not hearers only." Moffat's modern-English translation says:

"Act on the Word instead of merely listening to it." At the end of this section James offers the only definition of religion given in the entire Bible. Note that it is altogether in terms of action, behavior, life both inward and outward.

"Act on the Word"—he means the Word of God, of course. In verse 21 he has already told us the Word is like a seed sown in our lives, a seed expected to grow. Now look at Phil. 1:27-30. If you have the King James version, which is over 300 years old, that word "conversation" in verse 27 will mislead you.

What Paul wrote (in Greek, of course) was not conversation, but a word meaning manner of living. Moffat brings out the meaning more pointedly: "Do lead a life worthy of the Gospel of Christ." What God wants us to do as Christians is to live like the best sermons we hear. Live lives that match the story of Jesus.

Life of Grace

NOW turn to the story of Barnabas in Acts 11:19-26. Barnabas was commissioned by the mother-church to inspect and report on the new congregation at Antioch. Were they Christians or not? Barnabas saw two things about those people, and he was glad: it was a congregation of believers, and he saw also the grace of God.

Christian living is a life of faith and a life of grace. It is a life tied with God, blessed by the grace of God. Now this is not automatic. It is not something that happens whether we wish it or not.

Observe what Barnabas told those new Christians at Antioch: "Remain faithful to the Lord with steadfast purpose" (v. 23, Revised Standard Version). The Christian life is one of devotion, a life of steady purpose, it is no drifting, sinking life, it sails by the Star of God.

World Not Christian's Orange

NOW turn to a group of passages too full, as all of these are, to be gone over here in detail. You will have to take time yourself to read and think seriously about them: Matt. 5:1-20; 18:21-35; Romans 12:9-21. The theme running through all these is the same: The Christian's life is marked by a special kind of attitude toward other persons.

There are different ways in which people regard others. The criminal looks on all men as his enemies. He is out to beat them down. "Git or git got" is his motto. The "average citizen" who is no Christian, and even some who claim to be Christians but never got the hang of it, are not so brutal as the criminal, but their main idea about other people is much the same, though they are more polite about it.

As one of these has said: "The world is your orange—squeeze it!" What can I make, what is my cut, what will you give me, where do I come in, how can I use you? But the Christian's attitude to other people is totally different. What it is—well, read these passages from Jesus and Paul, and find out.

Without Ceasing

THERE is one more point about the Christian life. It keeps on. It grows. Look up I Thessalonians 5:15-25. Listen to the note of perseverance singing through it all. There is a preacher who sometimes says: "You cannot be a Christian today. You can begin today, because that takes only an instant. But you cannot be a Christian today. That takes a lifetime."

The phrases of Paul—"ever follow... evermore... without ceasing... hold fast..." were not mere phrases. He had lived them.

Utilities Burning,
Storing More Coal

Uncertainty of oil supplies in the North Atlantic states is acknowledged by the oil industry, members of which are presently engaged in a study of the feasibility of reconverting natural gas pipelines to oil carriers. Another major war could sever coastwise petroleum traffic from the Gulf of Mexico and at the same time close shipping lanes from Venezuela and Saudi Arabia—principal sources of foreign oil—to the Northeast Coast. Changing such carriers as the "Big Inch" and "Little Inch" lines back to movement of oil would, however, result in shortages to customers of natural gas. As world tension mounts and the availability of these fuels in North Atlantic markets continues uncertain, electric utilities may further expand their stockpiles of bituminous coal.

The Bureau of Mines report also shows that during July the Portland cement mills increased their stockpiles of bituminous coal by over 4 per cent above the previous month. Consumption was off less than 2 per cent in the same period. Total bituminous coal consumption for July—including industrial and retail-delivered—was 33,815,000 tons as compared with 33,248,000 tons in the month of June.

To Whom It May Concern:

In order to correct any false impressions that might arise from the statement of my former husband Steve Nemeth, published in this paper last week, I want to make known the following facts:

On September 9, 1949, he took me to my cousin's in Blue Island who was to take me to a dentist. He promised to pick me up later in the day. Instead, he went home, packed his belongings, went to the bank box and took all of our cash savings, and left. He left no bonds in the box. I did not hear from him again until two weeks ago when he suddenly returned. He never asked me to live with him in California and never told me he had a house there.

Because of his long abuse, non-support and sudden desertion, I divorced him.

GRAPES OF WRATH—Half the townsmen of Rochechouart, Haute Vienne, France, refuse to speak to wine wholesaler Leonce Chabernau. Hale and hearty at 69, Chabernau incurred his neighbors' wrath when he erected a vat-shaped family vault in the village's sedate cemetery and had the monument filled with wine to be drunk at his funeral.
